Porpoise Leather!

This Shoe is made of PORPOISESKIN, tanned in blubber oil, making it pliable and soft. It is impervious to moisture, as it has neither hair cells nor sweat glands. Inserted between the upper and lining, and between the inner and outer soles is a fine rubber lining. In addition to the stock being water proof, the rubber lining renders the shoe impervious to moisture or dampness. It is acknowledged to be the toughest leather manufactured. Washington Dispatches

Proceedings of the House and Senate.

NO STARTLING LEGISLATION.

The House Transacts a Large Amount of Miscellaneous Business—The Senate Ratifies the British Extradition Treaty. Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The house yesterday transacted a quantity of miscellaneous business. The journal was approved without objections. Saturday, March 15, was set apart on motion of Mr. O'Neill, of Pennsylvania, for eulogies upon the late William D. Kelly.

The pension appropriation bill was reported from the appropriations committee and referred to the committee of the whole.

A conference committee was ordered on the bill directing the superintendent of the census to collect farm mortgage statistics.

The house then went into committee of the whole, Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, in the chair, to consider the senate bill providing for the appointment of an assistant secretary of war at a salary of $4,500.

Mr. Cutcheon explained the necessity for an assistant secretary and the provisions of the bill, and stated that there was now no one above the grade of a clerk to assist the secretary. The duties of the office had largely increased owing to the growth of business.

Mr. McAdoo opposed the bill and thought that if a man of force and character was put at the head of the war department he would not need a civilian assistant.

Mr. Boutelle thought the secretary of war should be relieved from the management of details and allowed to devote himself to matters of general policy.

Mr. Washington, of Tennessee, recognized in the bill an attack on the surplus. There was no real necessity for any more assistant secretaries.

Mr. Spinola, of New York, and Mr. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, favored the bill, the latter characterizing it as in the interest of true economy. He said some one who was responsible for his action should fill this place. A great deal of money had been wasted in a hole in the ground here—the Washington aqueduct. The responsible officer had been court-martialed and sentenced to a punishment that was absolutely ludicrous. There was no possibility of a reform in the department or any bureau until a civilian assistant secretary was provided.

Mr. Adoo agreed with Mr. Breckinridge's view that the punishment of the army officer responsible for the tunnel failure was a disgrace to the army and tended to bring courts-martial into contempt.

At 1:30 the bill was laid aside without action, the committee rose and the house took up the special order, the Oklahoma bill. Mr. Perkins tried to have the house consider the senate bill for the relief of the Indians of Devil's Lake, N. Dak., but Mr. McMillen objected and the house went into committee of the whole on the Oklahoma bill, Mr. Payson, of Illinois, in the chair.

The debate was limited to three and a half hours. The Democrats demanded five hours, which was refused, and then demanded the reading in full of house and senate bills, fifty-nine printed pages. This consumed one hour and twenty minutes. Shortly after 3 p. m. Mr. Stubble, of Iowa, took the floor in support of the bill. He criticized the senate bill because it didn't include all of the Creek and Seminole lands purchased under the last administration. He explained the provisions of the house bill at length.

Mr. Barnes, of Georgia, spoke in favor of the senate bill. He said the house bill proposed to include in the territory lands to which the United States did not now hold title. The United States, he said, had no right to erect a superstructure of government over lands which, by solemn obligation and by treaty, belonged to the Indians.

Mr. Mansur, of Missouri, denied that the bill trampled on Indian rights.

Mr. Hare, of Texas, had read at the clerk's desk a letter from Governor Beard, of the Choctaw nation, protesting against the passage of the bill as a violation of treaty obligations. In the letter the governor says that the establishment of a territorial form of government and more courts meant the beginning of the end, the annihilation of the Indian.

Mr. Mansur, of Missouri, and Mr. Perkins, of Kansas, said that they had communications from Governor Beard asking the establishment of a court at a certain place.

Without concluding the discussion of the bill, the house at 5:10, adjourned.

The Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Directly after the transaction of the morning business the senate went into secret session for the discussion of the British extradition treaty. The senate was in secret session for three hours. At the end of that time the doors were opened, and the educational bill was taken up, Mr. Blair resuming his remarks in favor of the measure. In the course of his remarks Mr. Blair commented on the fact that very little of his speech had appeared in the daily papers or had been telegraphed from this city. He stated that he would probably occupy the time of the senate for two afternoons more.

The house bill for the relief of the Indians of the Devil's Lake agency, N. Dak., was passed.

After a second secret session, for the purpose of referring some nominations to appropriate committees, the senate at 5:33 p. m. adjourned.

The Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—At the cabinet meeting the report of Marshal Mizell on the killing in Florida of Deputy Marshal Saunders was read by Attorney General Miller, and the subject very generally discussed. Whatever action the government may take in the matter will be entirely separate and distinct from any action by the state of Florida.

Whatever action the government may take in the matter will be entirely separate and distinct from any action by the state of Florida.

Senate's Secret Session.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The senate in secret session ratified the British extradition treaty with unimportant amendments. The treaty makes applicable to the article of extradition concluded between the United States and Great Britain on Aug. 9, 1842, providing for the extradition of persons charged with specified crimes, the additional crimes of manslaughter, counterfeiting or altering money and bringing it into circulation, embezzlement, larceny, receiving stolen property, etc., fraud of all kinds, perjury rape and abduction, burglary, piracy by the laws of nations, revolt or conspiracy to revolt on the high seas, and crimes against the laws of both countries concerning slavery. Political criminals are exempted from the provisions of the treaty.

Idaho and Statehood.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Senator Platt, presented to the senate yesterday the report on the bill to admit the state of Idaho to the Union. The committee reviews the objections to the state constitution made by the Mormons, and refers to the decision of the supreme court of the United States sustaining the validity of the constitution so far as it applies to the Mormons. The committee says that no person will be restrained from voting under the anti-Mormon clause of the constitution unless he is a bigamist or a polygamist, when it shall appear that the Mormon church no longer puts allegiance to the church higher than allegiance to the state and when bigamy and polygamy ceases, no one will be disfranchised or excluded from holding office by the constitution of Idaho.

Presidential Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The president's proclamation warning cattle and live stock owners off the Cherokee strip says the animals must be removed not later than Oct. 1, 1890. The proclamation is based on an opinion of the attorney general to the effect that the Cherokee nation has no right to lease the lands.

Pension Appropriation Bill Reported.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The pension appropriation bill accompanied by a favorable report was submitted to the house yesterday by Mr. Morrow; the bill appropriates $98,127,461. The appropriation for the current year was $30,473,000. The number of pensioners on the roll is given as 489,725.

River Obstructions to Be Removed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Mr. McMillan introduced in the senate a bill appropriating $60,000 to enable the secretary of war to remove certain newly discovered dangers and obstructions to navigation in the Detroit river, Lake St. Clair, foot of Lake Huron and St. Mary's river.

Certificates of Bravery.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The president has awarded certificates for bravery in a fight with robbers in Arizona in May 1889, to Privates Thornton Hams and James Wheeler of the Tenth infantry.

Inventor of the Typewriter Dead.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 19.—Latham Sholes, the inventor of the typewriter, died last night at his home, No. 836 Racine street, at the age of 71. Mr. Sholes was a pioneer journalist of Wisconsin. In 1837 he became associated with his brother, C. C. Sholes, in editing and publishing The Wisconsin Democrat at Greenbay. In 1840 the paper was removed to Southport, now Kenosha, where Mr. Sholes remained until 1857. Since that time Mr. Sholes has been connected with The Sentinel, and later The Daily News. Since his invention of the typewriter he has been living a retired life, and for some time past has been in failing health. He is survived by a large family.

No Hope for Bishop O'Connor.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 19.—All hope of the recovery of Bishop O'Connor, of Denver, who is at the Mercy hospital, this city, was given up yesterday evening. His disease is a stricture of the intestines. The physicians decided that the only chance for him lay in the use of the knife. Dr. Applee, of Philadelphia, who had been the bishop's physician for years, was sent for to consult with the Pittsburgh doctors. The consultation was held yesterday afternoon. It was decided that the sick man was beyond all aid and that an operation would only result in additional suffering and could do no good.

Gave Ball and Returned Home.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 19.—The seventeen citizens of Sharon, arrested and brought here on charges of interfering with the discharge of his duties by Postmaster Duckworth, of Sharon, were examined by United States Commissioner Alexander and bound over in $600 each to appear at the April term of the federal court in Augusta. All gave bonds and left for home to-night. United States Attorney Erwin will to-morrow begin taking testimony in the case before Commissioner Alexander.

Insane Asylum Burned.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 19.—One wing of the insane asylum was destroyed by fire Sunday morning, causing a loss of $40,000. All of the patients were gotten out of the building safely. The fire originated in the boiler room.

Death Scaffold Completed.

BELLEFOURTE, Pa., Feb. 19.—The scaffold, on which Hopkins will hang to-morrow, has been completed, and works perfect. The sheriff says Hopkins is resting quietly awaiting the day. He sleeps and eats as well as usual.

The Head Still Missing.

ROCHESTER, N. H., Feb. 19.—A snow fall has checked for the present the search on land for the head of the murdered Hiram F. Sawtelle.

Killed By Mistake.

A Deplorable Shooting Tragedy at Florence, Ind.

PARTNERS AND RELATIVES.

William Told Mistakes Frederick Essman, His Brother-in-Law and Partner, For Another Man, and Shoots Him. Full Particulars of the Sad Event.

VEVAY, Ind., Feb. 19.—At Florence, eight miles above Vevay, on the river, yesterday evening just after dark, William Told accidentally and unintentionally shot his brother-in-law, Fred. Essman, the bullet striking him in the forehead, and he died this morning at 3 o'clock. Told and Schruppf are partners in business, and their families both reside in the same house, Told and Essman have married sisters, daughters of Mr. Schruppf.

In the afternoon S. D. Baldwin went to the store of Schruppf & Told to see about an account he owed Schruppf, and that Schruppf was trying to collect. The senior Baldwin took offense, but Schruppf, being a peaceable man, did not say anything to increase his anger. His son, S. D. Baldwin, heard of the matter, got angry and, being intoxicated, he commenced hunting for Mr. Schruppf, and not finding him at the store went to his residence.

The family of Mr. Schruppf locked the door and would not let Baldwin in. He broke in the door, when a Mr. Marshall, who heard the noise, took Baldwin away. As Baldwin left he made threats, and said he would return. In the meantime, William Told, who was at the store, heard of the affair and went to the house.

After consultation it was agreed between Mr. Schruppf and Mr. Told they go before a justice of the peace and have Baldwin arrested. They were leaving the house for that purpose, when Mr. Told saw a man inside the yard. It was then dark, and while he could not see the features of the man, he believed him to be Baldwin. He asked several times: "Who are you," and receiving no response, and the man continuing to advance, he fired three times in quick succession.

When a light was brought he was horrified to find he had shot his brother-in-law and best friend. Mr. Told is a quiet, peaceable citizen, and an honorable business man. The home of his family had been assaulted. His wife and children had been frightened. He believed himself in great danger, and thought he was acting in self-defense. Since the death of Essman Told has been nearly crazed with grief. Essman leaves a family.

SONS OF BENJAMIN.

The Biennial Convention Meets at Cleveland and Elects Officers.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 19.—The biennial convention of the Sons of Benjamin met in session here with Coroner Ferdinand Levy, of New York, in the chair. Nearly 200 delegates were in attendance. The report of the secretary shows that the receipts were $208,667, and the disbursements $199,456.

The officers chosen to serve during the next two years are as follows: Grand master, Ferdinand Levy, of New York; first deputy grand master, B. Rosenthal, of New York; second deputy grand master, Samuel Dorf, of Baltimore; grand secretary, A. Silberstein, of New York; grand treasurer, A. Rosenberg, of New York; endowment treasurer, Selig Manilla, of New York; grand outside guardian, H. Mandelbaum, of New York, and chairman of the committee on appeals, Louis Lindemann, of New York.

THE CRUSADERS.

Thirteen Women and Two Men Arrested at Spickardville, Mo.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 19.—A special to The Times from Spickardville, Mo., says: Constable Francis, to whom was intrusted the duty of serving the warrants upon the crusaders, charging them with malicious destruction of property, performed his task yesterday.

He met with no opposition, the ladies having determined to submit quietly to their martyrdom, as they call it. Thirteen ladies and three men were arrested. All gave bond in the sum of $50 each for appearance before a justice next Friday, when their preliminary examination will occur at Lathrop. That event will be made the occasion of a great demonstration by the ladies, who will parade the streets with banners and transparencies.

Back Again in a Prison Cell.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 19.—Charles Kelly, a prisoner who escaped from the penitentiary June 29, 1888, was returned from Toledo yesterday. He claims that on inauguration day he visited the prison and was shown through by Guard Patton, and spoke to several prisoners and to Deputy Cherrington. He claims he did not leave Columbus after his escape, but worked at the brickyard of Michael Haveland, and after leaving them worked at several saloons about the city.

Death of Bayard Taylor's Mother.

KENNETT SQUARE, Pa., Feb. 19.—Mrs. Rebecca Mary Taylor, mother of the late distinguished author and traveler, Bayard Taylor, died here yesterday in her 90th year, after a brief illness. Mrs. Taylor had grown quite feeble physically, but she greatly enjoyed the society of her many friends.

He Repents His Folly.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 19.—Nicholas Carmen, 64 years old, while drunk attempted to commit suicide. He jumped from a high trestle work on the Cincinnati, Sandusky and Cleveland railroad. A workman returning home rescued him half dead. He lives and repents his folly.

TRIAL OF THE BRIBERS.

Proof Conclusive That the Cronin Jury Were Tampered With.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—The Cronin jury bribing case was resumed. Clerk Lee testified as to the pleas entered in the Cronin case, for the purpose of showing the issues in that case.

George Tschappot, the man who first revealed the fact of the conspiracy to the state's attorney, was then called. He was summoned Oct. 8 as a juror in the Cronin case. In the jury waiting room he talked with Bailiff Salomon, who told him he could make $1,000 by getting on the jury and voting for acquittal. The money would be paid his wife, who would wear a certain kind of dress in the jury room to show the money was paid. Witness was examined that afternoon and excused. Salomon met witness afterwards and told him he had been instructed to pay $5,000 or any price. The defense did not cross-examine.

Louis Alexander testified that Fred W. Smith had told him several times during September and October that it would be worth his while to get on the Cronin jury.

Harry G. Maley also testified that Smith had spoken to him.

P. H. Nicholson, a bookkeeper, testified that he was summoned as a juror, but was not examined. Smith offered him $500 if he would get accepted and hold out for acquittal.

Joseph Konen, one of the men indicted by the grand jury was the next witness. He testified that Bailiff Hanks had asked him if he wouldn't like to go to the Cronin jury for the $200 in fees and $1,000 more if he should find for acquittal. Konen thought he would and was accordingly summoned. He had told his wife that if any one gave her $1,000 she should take it, Hanks had proposed that.

Fred W. Smith, another of the indicted men testified that Graham had asked him if he couldn't go on the jury. He declined but gave Graham several names of men he could control.

Ex-Bailiff Hanks, the next witness, told in detail of his different meetings with Graham. Graham showed the witness a big bundle of money and said he wanted a man on the Cronin jury for the defense. He wanted him to "stick right there; acquit or give them a year, but a disagreement would do as a last resort." Graham gave Hanks a list of names but as Hanks was not sent out to summon jurors he gave the list to Bailiff Salomon. Subsequently Graham told the witness not to use this list and gave him another one to give to Salomon. This last list was submitted as evidence. All but the last of the seven names are supposed to be in Graham's handwriting, the last being that of Hanks, at the dictation of Graham. Graham told the witness that the money would be forthcoming as soon as one or two on the list had been summoned. "The fellows over at the opera house block," said Graham, "were a little short of money just now from paying attorney fees but the money would be all right."

WOMEN SUFFRAGISTS.

Proceedings of the Twenty-Second Annual Convention in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The twenty-second annual convention of the National American Women Suffrage association opened at Lincoln music hall yesterday. Mrs. E. Cady Stanton, the president, called the convention to order and gave a long and interesting sketch of the women suffrage movement, in which she said in the next ten years women would be voting in every state in the Union. Referring to her going abroad, Mrs. Stanton said that in going to England as the president of the association, she felt it a greater honor than if she had been sent as minister plenipotentiary to any court in Europe.

Mrs. Stanton, at the conclusion of her address, introduced her daughter, Mrs. Blatch, who gave an account of the woman suffrage movement in England. William Dudley Foulk, of Indiana, followed in a long address on crimes against the suffrage generally, and earnestly and forcibly pleading for suffrage to women.

At the evening session Miss Susan B. Anthony presided. The hall was filled with spectators, mainly of the weaker sex. Mrs. Isabella Beecher Hooker made a speech and told of the difficulties experienced in pushing the cause in Connecticut, her native state. Mrs. Mary Seymour Howell, of Albany, N. Y., and Mrs. Laura A. Chant also made speeches. The convention then adjourned for the day.

LAWYERS DISAPPOINTED.

A Shooting Case Between Neighbors Settled by Ministers.

LONDON, O., Feb. 19.—An unexpected turn has been taken in the criminal case of J. M. Graham, of this township, and his three sons—Kinney, Auburn and Milton, jr.—who were bound over to court about three weeks ago in five hundred dollars each for shooting an aged neighbor, Mr. Robert Woodhouse, and his wife, with intent to kill. All the parties to the affair were church members, Woodhouse being a vestryman in Trinity Episcopal church of this city, and the Grahams being communicants at the Presbyterian church.

Mr. Woodhouse, whose son married Graham's daughter, is a mild-mannered and benevolent old man, and the trouble preyed on his mind until he called in the clergy to his aid in effecting a compromise. Three London clergymen and the parties to the affair therefore held a conference, the result of which was that the whole affair was "made up" amicably and compromised, and the church members were restored to full fellowship and good standing in their respective congregations.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 19.—The evangelists held their meeting at Hull last night undisturbed. The police arrangements were so complete as to overawe the disorderly element, and though the streets were crowded with an ugly disposed throng and many threats were made, there was no open attack upon the worshippers.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1890

BAFFLED IN NORTH DAKOTA, the Louisiana Lottery, whose charter expires in a couple of years, is struggling hard for a new plant. Its net profits are estimated at $3,200,000 a year.

In the last Constitutional convention Mason County was represented by John D. Taylor (Whig) and Peter Lashbrooke (Democrat). Fleming County by Martin P. Marshall (Whig) and Selucius Garfield (Democrat).

GOVERNOR BUCKNER is making good use of his veto power. Charters allowing banks to begin business on only a small per cent of their capital stock ought to be killed. The people must be protected from these wild-cat schemes.

A BILL has been introduced in the House of Representatives at Washington to pay Colonel Sam McKee $1,718 for contesting his seat in the Fortieth Congress. He was defeated by Hon. John D. Young in this district in May, 1867, by a big majority.

MAJOR HALE, the new State Treasurer, has, for fifteen years, been President of the First National Bank at Mayfield. He was a member of the State Senate from 1872 to 1876, and a Major under General Forrest. He is spoken of as a man of marked ability and high standing. Major Hale is a man of about 45 years of age.

THE Commonwealth reproduces a portion of a letter from Mr. J. B. Holton to the Maysville BULLETIN—a Democrat writing to a Democratic paper—advocating the adoption of the ballot system. The Democratic party in Kentucky is expressing its wishes in a most unmistakable manner on this subject. The desire for the ballot is evidenced by the articles in the Democratic press favoring the system and none opposing it.—Covington Commonwealth.

How the North is Gerrymandered. "The work of gerrymandering a State for Congressional purposes, with a view to overruling the will of the people, is always out of place, and always wrong, and therefore a law to put a stop to the fraud is always constitutional. We are therefore in favor of the Wicksam bill."—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

"Hypocrisy could scarcely go farther than the above," says the Louisville Times. "In the present Congress the Republicans have sixteen members from Ohio and the Democrats five. At the election, the Republicans cast 416,054 votes and the Democrats 396,455. Thus, in Ohio, 26,003 votes are sufficient to elect a Republican Congressman, while it requires 79,291 votes to elect a Democratic Congressman. If there had been a fair apportionment in Ohio the Democrats would have elected ten Congressmen and the Republicans eleven, a sufficient change to have made a tie in the National House of Representatives.

"What is true of Ohio is true of every Northern State from Maine to California, except that Indiana is gerrymandered on the Democratic side of the hedge. In round numbers the solid North cast 4,000,000 votes for the Republican ticket and elected 152 Republican Congressmen, and it cast 3,600,000 votes for the Democratic ticket and elected sixty-seven Democratic Congressmen. So it will be observed that in the section of perfect righteousness—where Harrison's prayers and Wauwau's holiness, where Quay's bribery and Dudley's brutality, cover the land as a mantle—26,317 votes are sufficient to elect a Republican Congressman, and 53,432 votes are necessary to choose a Democratic Congressman. Talk about majority rule! Why do you not practice it?"

"It is meet that Congress should investigate this matter. It will put the people to thinking, and give play to whatever of honesty, magnanimity and courage the North may have. Bring on the discussion. The Democrats do not fear the issue, but welcome it."

Pithy Points From Washington.

The church should have no room for men whose daily avocation is that of fitting their fellow men for misery and despair.

The liquor traffic should be made pay for all jails, penitentiaries and almshouses, for it alone makes such institutions necessary.

It isn't much of a compliment to any intelligent man to have said of him that he neither smokes or drinks, for these are the prerogatives of the ruffian and bully.

The State never recovers anything like compensation for the privilege of having her citizens made into drunkards, paupers, imbeciles and murderers, no matter how large a license fee she may be paid therefor.

Goes Reed One Better.

[Kansas City Times.]

The Lieutenant Governor of Montana is a greater statesman than Mr. Reed. He has seen the man from Maine and gone him several better. When the Democratic Senators refused to vote he counted them, and when they left the Senate Chamber he passed a resolution fining them $25 for the first day's absence, $50 for the second, etc. Then he had warrants issued for their arrest and has caught one of them. Beside this Montana cyclone Speaker Reed is a very small-bore statesman. In the list of Presidential possibilities don't forget the Lieutenant Governor of Montana.

Increased Fifteen Thousand Fold.

The Express but recently published the fact that Mr. Z. P. Cole, a poor man who resides at Pearsall, was the lucky winner of fifteen thousand dollars in the Louisiana State Lottery, having purchased ticket No. 98,455, which drew one-fortieth of the grand capital prize of $600,000 in the December drawing. Mr. Cole sent his ticket to New Orleans by express, where it was cashed in full and the money returned to him in a remarkably short time, thus demonstrating the fact that the Louisiana State Lottery Company is as reliable as ever, and never makes a promise that is not carried out to the letter.—San Antonio (Tex.) Express, January 8.

Stock, Crop and Turf Items.

Fifty horses, sold at Lexington Monday, brought $42,025.

It would hardly be thought, after all the press has had to say about Bohemian oats, that anybody would now be found credulous enough to be taken in by this venerable swindle. However, there are farmers who know too much to read the papers, and we understand that some of these people are being hooked by the old bait. Beats all—doesn't it?—Exchange.

"In an English theater, recently," says an exchange, "the orchestra between the acts was playing very loudly, and two ladies in a front row were endeavoring to converse at the same time. They had to raise their voices considerably, and as the orchestra suddenly reached a low passage the voice of one of the ladies became cruelly distinct just as she remarked, 'I wear silk underclothes.'"

SHANNON.

The remains of Harlan Murphy, a sprightly and amiable youth of sixteen years of this neighborhood, only child of William H. Murphy, were laid to rest in Shannon cemetery, after an appropriate discourse by Rev. Dr. Anderson, at 3 o'clock, Tuesday, February 18th. The solemn and impressive rites of the church were interspersed by some very touching hymns of consolation rendered in a rich voice by the organist, Miss Carrie B. Dye, of Sardis.

The Earth's Surface.

[Golden Days.]

The surface of the earth comprises an area of 200,000,000 square miles, of which three-fourths is covered with water. This leaves 50,000,000 of square miles of land for the human race to occupy, or about one square mile for every thirty-five persons, big and little.

BEATEN TO DEATH.

Particulars of the Horrible Homicide Committed in Charleston Bottom.

Broshear's Skull Crushed With a Club and Shovel. He Survived But a Short Time.

Thomas A. Broshear's one of the best citizens of Mason County, met with a horrible death yesterday morning at his tobacco warehouse in Charleston Bottom.

Brief and incomplete details of the deplorable affair were given in yesterday's issue, but at the time the BULLETIN went to press it was not known that the affray had proved so terribly fatal.

The warehouse is situated within a hundred yards or so of Broshear's Station, on the C. & O. Railroad, and at what has been known for years as Broshear's Landing, once a prominent shipping-point.

When Drs. Strode and Browning arrived on the scene, in response to the hasty summons, they found Broshear insensible. He was in a dying condition. Life was fast ebbing away as a result of the terrible wounds he had received. It was a case where medical skill was of no avail, and fifteen minutes after their arrival the spirit had taken its flight, and he, who an hour or so before was a strong, robust man, was now stretched out before them a corpse.

The face and head were beaten and bruised in a ghastly manner, and the examination made showed even more ghastly wounds. There were terrible fractures of the skull, the frontal bones and those at the side being crushed and broken into a mass—"beaten almost into a jelly." With such wounds it is remarkable that the man survived as long as he did. There were no cuts or injuries on his body, his slayers seemingly having aimed their murderous blows only at his head.

It is always a difficult matter to get at the exact facts in such a deplorable affair as this. Broshear was insensible when his friends reached him and died without uttering a word. His lips were sealed in death without opportunity of uttering their version of the affray. No one was present but the participants, 'Gus Sullivan, his son, Sam, (aged nineteen or twenty years), and Broshear. George Vertner, colored, and Ollie Griffith were only a few feet away, but were on the outside of the building and did not see the commencement, nor did they see the fatal blows dealt. Their account is substantially as follows: They were assisting Broshear in rolling several hogsheads of tobacco out of the building preparatory to shipping it on the steamer to Cincinnati. Sullivan, accompanied by his son, called to see about selling some old tobacco at Cincinnati in which he and Broshear were both interested. After some other conversation about it, Broshear said to the elder Sullivan: "I understand you have been telling that I had been offered 11 cents for this tobacco and that I wouldn't sell it. If you have told such a story, you told a lie." This was while Griffith and Vertner were present. The two latter started to roll a hogshead from the door to the corner of the house, and left Broshear standing near the center of the room, with the Sullivans a few feet distant from him and on different sides. It was not a minute's work to roll the hogshead to the point designated. When Griffith returned to the door, he saw Broshear lying on the floor, with 'Gus Sullivan on top holding him and his son standing over him with a heavy spade in hand. Broshear was apparently insensible, but young Sullivan raised the spade and was in the act of striking another blow, when Griffith called to him and stopped him. When Griffith and Vertner came up, young Sullivan said to his father: "Come on and let's get away from here." "I want my knife first," was the answer, and the elder Sullivan turned the body over as if looking for the weapon. Young Sullivan repeated his remark. "Well, I guess he has got enough," was his father's reply, and the two hurried away.

Such is Griffith and Vertner's account of the affray, as developed at the Coroner's inquest yesterday afternoon, held by 'Equire Vicroy. The two were not out of view of the parties more than a minute, yet in that time Broshear had received the deadly blows. It is the belief of his friends that he was knocked insensible at the first blow, and was then beaten to death.

His slayers hurried to town. Near the furniture factory, they met Sheriff Alexander, and surrendered to him. They were taken before Judge Coons, who committed them to jail to await their examining trial, which is set for to-morrow at 2 p. m.

A representative of the BULLETIN accompanied Dr. Strode and Mr. Jacob Wormald to the jail yesterday afternoon. To the inquiry, "How did all this happen?" 'Gus Sullivan replied:

"He called me a g—d—m lying s—n of b—h, and struck me on the head with a stick. I ducked my head and run in under him and knocked him down. He sent for me to see about the tobacco. I didn't go there for a fuss. He asked me what I had done with the pike. I saw he was in a bad humor and said to Sam let's leave and go and look at the land. I was thinking about renting some ground in the neighborhood from Dr. Shackelford, and was to let him know in a day or so."

In answer to the question what he struck Broshear with he said: "Only with my fists." When told that Broshear was dead he said: "Well, I am sorry for it. I didn't have anything against him. Tom Broshear was an overbearing man. I don't know what the people of Charleston Bottom have against me."

During the conversation young Sullivan also stated that Broshear called his father a g—d—n, old-whiskered, lying s—n of b—h; that Broshear struck at him (Sam) with a stick, but he threw up his arm and was not hurt; that after this he didn't know exactly what did take place.

The elder Sullivan has a cut on the left forehead about two inches long, where he says Broshear struck him with a stick.

Such are the particulars of this terrible tragedy as far as learned. None stood higher in the community than Broshear. He had always been regarded as one of the quietest, most peaceable, orderly and law-abiding citizens in the county. He was a man of sobriety and integrity, a thorough-going, straight-forward business man, the soul of honor, a man who would disdain to take unfair advantage of any one, and who never intermeddled with other people's affairs. He was esteemed and respected wherever known, and his friends and neighbors are terribly wrought up over his awful death. He belonged to one of the old families of the county. His father, Middleton Broshear, died some years ago and his mother last fall. He was about fifty years of age, and unmarried. Four brothers and two sisters survive him. His remains will be interred to-morrow morning, at the burying-ground in Charleston Bottom, after funeral services at the family residence at 10 o'clock by Rev. J. E. Wright, of this city.

The deceased was an ex-Confederate. He went in at the commencement of the war, and was one of the bravest of the members of Company F. of Gano's Regiment.

Suicide Near Millwood.

Mrs. James Layton cut her throat from ear to ear last night about 9 o'clock at her home near Millwood, a razor being her weapon. The awful deed is attributed to family troubles, as she had not been living happily with her husband for some time. He was absent at a party at the time.

She was a daughter of Mr. Lewis Bramel.

The Minstrels To night.

Cleveland's Consolidated Minstrels will be here to-night. They recently appeared at Grand Opera House in New York, and the Dramatic News says: "At least fifteen minutes before the curtain rose there was not a seat left. There were upheavals of applause and hurricanes of laughter. It was a red-letter day in minstrelsy. It was a long bill but none too long for the enthusiastic audience. These greatest burnt-cork comedians supplied the fun: Billy Emerson, Hughey Dougherty, John Queen, Marcus Doyle and Burt Sheppard. Those marvelous Japanese jugglers were also 'aggregated,' and gave a splendid finale to the show."

Here and There.

Miss Lottie Wood is visiting kinsfolk and friends in Washington and vicinity.

Mr. Frank C. McCasky, of the Vanceburg Sun, called on the BULLETIN yesterday.

Miss Turney, of Paris, is visiting her friend, Miss Lucy Durrett, near Washington.

Mrs. John T. Dye and daughter, of Indianapolis, are visiting Mr. John B. Holton, near Washington.

Rumor has it that Mr. Thomas Parry, of the Kansas City Journal, will shortly wed an accomplished young lady of that city.

Miss Hatie Owens, of "Crab Orchard Farm," is having a delightful visit at Council Bluffs, Iowa. She has met many ex-Kentuckians, among them a son of General Doniphan, who once commanded an expedition against the Mormons.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh G. Bowles have returned from Jacksonville, Fla. They report a delightful time there during the session of the Railway Ticket Agents' Association. The citizens of Jacksonville entertained their guests in royal style.

The funeral of Mr. S. S. Riley, yesterday afternoon, was largely attended, particularly by his Masonic brethren. Many Sir Knights from Flemingsburg, Manchester, Vanceburg, Portsmouth and elsewhere were present. The remains were followed to the grave by a big concourse of friends and relatives.

The Cronin Murder.

Interest in the Case Revived By a New Arrest.

THIS SAID TO BE IMPORTANT.

In Fact One of the Principal Actors in the Great Crime Believed to Be Behind the Bars in St. Louis—A Later Report States That the Prisoner is Believed to Be Smith, the Man Who Drove Dr. Cronin to the Carlson Cottage.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—A new and most important link has been picked up in the Cronin murder case and from all appearances it is now reasonably certain that the great murder conspiracy will be thoroughly exposed. This link consists of the arrest of one of the principal actors of the terrible tragedy of May 4. The man who is under arrest, however, is not Cooney "the Fox," as was reported, and he was not arrested in Michigan.

The man who is said to have played a more important part than Cooney in the bloody drama of the Cronin conspiracy and butchery was arrested in St. Louis Monday evening by Officer Thomas of the Central station. The man has been sought long and vainly and the authorities had almost given up all hopes of being able to capture him.

Chief Marsh was very reticent and refused to confirm the reports. There is no doubt however that an important arrest has been made.

Particulars of the Arrest.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 19.—Yesterday evening Officer Thomas, of Chicago, and Detectives Fries and Ziegler, of this city, arrested a man who is suspected of being connected with the murder of Dr. Cronin in Chicago in May last. It is not known in what part of the city the man was arrested, as all information in regard to it is suppressed by the police authorities. The man arrested is not a citizen of St. Louis, but is a stranger who has been in the habit of visiting here at intervals. He is closely guarded at the police station, and no one is allowed access to his cell. Chief Huebler intimates that the arrest will cause a sensation if the man proves to be the man whom Chicago officials suspect him to be.

Six weeks ago Detective Thomas arrived in St. Louis in search of his man, but found that he had flown a day or two before. The detective has been on his trail ever since and says that he followed him through nearly every southern city. The man returned here last Sunday and the police say he was arrested on the street. His description is given as follows: Medium size, five feet seven inches in height, weight about 160 pounds, dark hair and dark mustache.

Chief Huebler stated positively that he is not "Cooney the Fox." Local members of the Clan-na-Gael say that they are unaware of the presence in the city of any one connected with the Cronin case, and cannot imagine who the suspect is, if he is not "The Fox."

LATER—The man arrested as being connected with the murder of Dr. Cronin, has just been interviewed by a United Press reporter. He said: "My name is John B. Kelley. I had nothing to do with the murder of Dr. Cronin. I admitted to the chief of police, however, that I am the party the Chicago police are looking for. It is a case of mistaken identity. I first visited Chicago Feb. 15, 1889. I left there the latter part of June the same year. I have never belonged to the Clan-na-Gael or any other Irish organization. I know none of the people accused of murdering Dr. Cronin. The only Irish agitator I know is Thomas Desmond, of San Francisco. I came to St. Louis Aug. 15 last, and have boarded at the People's house, corner Fourth and Lucas avenue, ever since."

The prisoner appeared ill at ease and tried to evade all direct questions. He denied knowing Alexander Sullivan. He stated that he was a clerk, but refused to say where he had been employed.

Detective Thomas, of Chicago, stated since the interview that Kelley is believed to be Smith the man who drove Dr. Cronin to the Carlson cottage on the night of May 4 last. The proprietor of the People's house corroborates Kelley's story as to boarding there since Aug. 15.

The Prisoner Identified as Smith.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 19.—Detectives Collins and Clark, of Chicago, have just arrived, and have identified the Cronin suspect in this city as the man supposed to be Smith, who took Dr. Cronin to the Carlson cottage.

LEGAL EXECUTION IN KENTUCKY.

The Victim Blamed the Hatfield Gang for Forcing Him to Murder.

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Feb. 19.—Ellison Mounts was hanged at this place yesterday for participating in the murder of Miss Alafair McCoy and her brother. He was cool to the last, and as the black cap was pulled over his face, declared that the Hatfield outlaw gang forced him to engage in the murder. The drop fell at 12:37 o'clock.

The execution was practically public. The scaffold was erected in the outskirts of the town in a valley overlooked by the graveyard. A small board fence was built around the instrument of death, more to avoid the law prohibiting public hanging, than to prevent the multitude from witnessing the proceedings. In view of the threats made by the condemned man's friends to rescue him the greatest care was observed to prevent such an arrangement. All strangers to the authorities were excluded from the inclosure.

Body Found in the River.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 19.—A telegram has been received here by the P. M. Patterson Transfer company, announcing the finding of a body at Walnut Bend, Ark., in the river. The body, attired in a blue suit, and a transfer company ticket and punch found in the clothes, was suspected to be the body of Transfer Agent Burrows, who disappeared on the night of Dec. 24. The telegram is signed G. M. Roach, and dated from Helena, Ark., thirty miles from Walnut Bend. Two negroes are held at this time at Marion for the murder of Burrows.
